Salaries to be set Monday

Griffin to propose pay hike plan for lower-paid county employees

County Commissioner Dee Griffin will propose Monday that commissioners hike salaries for lower-paid county employees by at least 10 per cent and possibly more.

Griffin said Friday he will propose that those employees who make under about $600 per month be given a healthier salary increase for 1976 than those employees making above that figure.

"I still think those under $600 should be raised 10 per cent if not 15 per cent," Griffin said.

He said he may propose a 5 per cent pay increase for those who make above $600 per month salaries. He may propose also that those employees who do an exceptional job be given a 2 per cent hike over, and above the regular hike proposal.

"I will have some reasonable things to present," Griffin said of the Monday salary-setting session.

But, he admits he doesn't know where in the 1976 budget approved by commissioners last August he will find enough money available to boost salaries by the amount he's considering. Commissioners will meet at 1 p.m. Monday to consider a lengthy agenda which includes the annual salary session.

Early in the budget-making process last summer, commissioners told county employees to expect no pay raises in 1976 due to a large increase in budget requirements. In discussing salaries in July, commissioners indicated they would lay aside money to provide an across-the-board 6 per cent pay increase for all employees but would probably not meet out a full 6 per cent increase to every employee.

They also discussed freezing elected officials' salaries at the current level, but Griffin and Commissioner John Fulgenzi argued against such a move.

Fulgenzi joined Griffin Friday in hoping commissioners can find funds to pay substantial hikes to those employees making under $600 per month.

"But, if the money's not there, what can you do?" he asked. "If we can do it, fine. We just can't arbitrarily jump the wages up."

Following a September commission meeting, Fulgenzi and Griffin told The News they would advocate pay hikes for those in the county employ making less than $500 per month, arguing that minimum-wage workers in many cases make just as much or more than starting county employees.

Griffin noted at that time that

Cites 'personal reasons'

Lindsey won't run again

Paul Lindsey, who's served on almost every public body in Randall County, announced Friday he will not seek re-election as county commissioner.

Lindsey, former Canyon mayor, former school board member and former city commissioner, said his decision is due to "personal reasons."

But, he said, his decision reflects in no way on his most recent service on the county commissioners court or his experiences on the court.

"It has really been a challenge for me to work with everybody and with the public," he said. "But, for personal reasons I feel I can't accept it anymore."

In early January of 1970, Lindsey announced he would not seek re-election as mayor of Canyon. But, he stayed out of the political and public realm only two years before he was elected on the Democratic ticket after a hectic primary campaign to represent the Canyon area rural and urban precinct on the commissioners court.

Lindsey, a native of Newport in Jack County, began work at an early age in Post and came with his father to Canyon in 1930 when he was 17.

He owned a car dealership and implement company here for years before retiring to pursue the cattle and farming business.

He began his public service in 1937 when he joined the Canyon Volunteer Fire Department. Lindsey retired from the department in 1965 after 28 years.

He served on the Canyon School Board from 1941 to 1947 and was a director of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce from 1942 to 1946.

Lindsey was first elected to the Canyon City Commission in 1954 and served, except for a two-

Another group wants permit

South Randall County farmers and cattlemen opposed to cloud-seeding on the South Plains learned last week another area firm will seek a four-year permit to modify weather from the Texas Water Development Board.

Nolon Henson, who along with Walter Graham is spearheading a drive among area farmers and ranchers against issuance of the permit, said a Littlefield firm is also expected to seek a four-year permit to engage in weather modification activities on the South Plains.

The farmers and ranchers contend the weather modification activities in the more southern areas has had an adverse effect on rainfall in South Randall County.

Even though the Littlefield firm will seek a permit, Henson said his drive will seek primarily to block issuance of a permit to the Plains Weather Improvement Association of Hale County, which also seeks a four-year permit.

That drive is nearing an end as Henson is circulating a petition among area farmers and ranchers in an effort to gather 25 signatures to present to the Water Development Board in protest of the permit issuance. State law requires that with the presentation of a 25-name opposition petition, the development board must call a public hearing in the area affected before any permit may be issued.

Henson said he hopes to get the petition in the mail by Saturday for it to reach the water development board by Jan. 15, the deadline for presentation of the protest.

In addition, Henson has begun anew efforts to gain county officials' support of his position against weather modification activities. He will ask Randall County commissioners Monday to pass a resolution calling for a halt to any weather modification activities which would impact on Randall County rainfall.

He said he will also ask other area commissioners courts for passage of similar resolutions.

Tax hike talk due, board to eye issues

How to raise taxes to cover an operating budget inflated by normal economic pressures, legislated increases and the demands of growth will be a key problem facing Canyon School Board members Monday night.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the school administration building to consider tax increases for the next school year as well as a whole passel of other issues related to the failure on Dec. 9 of a proposed $6 million new school bond issue.

"We're going to have to increase our valuation some way or other or we'll have to borrow money," Supt. Jerry Jacobs said Friday. The school district tax rate of $1.50 for operating budget is now at the legal maximum.

Jacobs has said several times in the past that increases anticipated for the 1976-77 school year will demand new tax funds for the district. The CISD has increased the tax rate each year since 1968 to keep pace of increased costs.

Increases for '76-'77 will be even more burdensome, according to Jacobs, particularly since the state legislature last spring placed more of the requirement for education financing on the local school district. He has estimated the legislation will cost the CISD taxpayers an increase of more than $100,000 for the next school year.

Several options are expected to be considered by school board members Monday night when they begin talking tax increases.

Jacobs said one option will certainly be to follow the advice of the school board-appointed Citizens Advisory Committee for Sound Financing, which last fall issued a report suggesting a two-pronged approach to raising taxes:

A. The revision of property assessment formulas used by the CISD tax office to reflect current market values. The present formulas used to figure the tax base were generated in 1967.

B. The placement of property tax values on the tax rolls at 100 per cent of the assessed value of the property with the CISD board to set tax rates to meet the current budget.

Jacobs said it might be most feasible this year to simply raise the percentage of assessment, which now stands at 40 per cent, and adjust the $1.92 tax rate, which includes both operating and interest and sinking funds, to meet the projected '76-'77 budget.

Then, during the year and in preparation for a major change in 1977-78, the tax office could begin updating assessment formulas on all property in the district to reflect current market value prices.

Jacobs sees no need for a full re-evaluation of property in the district, contending that an updating of assessment formulas would serve the same purpose.

The discussion on hiking taxes Monday night will be separate from discussion of the possible construction of new schools in the district, an action which Jacobs has already predicted would raise interest and sinking taxes by as much as 26 per cent.

Whether or not the CISD board will set the date for another bond issue election Monday night was a matter of question Friday.

Board President Tom Keeling said he doesn't know whether the board will call another election or not at the meeting. The item is on the agenda for discussion.

Supt. Jacobs said it might not be possible to set an election date in January and he would favor a date in early or mid-February.

Other issues the board will face on their Monday agenda include discussion of allowing several South Amarillo land developers to remove their property from the CISD for annexation by the AISD.

Keeling said he expects the board to reopen discussions with the developers, primarily Emmett Fuqua of Quen Sabe Investments, who is developing a portion of a section just west of Coulter Road and south of 34th Street in Amarillo.

The board will also discuss permitting a $3000 homestead tax exemption for senior citizens. Currently, a South Amarillo retired man, H.C. Bennett, is circulating petitions to force the board to call a plebiscite on the granting of a $3000 exemption to the elderly.

The de-annexation of development lands and the granting of a $3000 exemption to the elderly were two key issues in the defeat of the $6 million bond issue in December.

Emergency measures which can be taken to provide facilities for students will also be discussed by the board.

Jacobs said an executive session has been called to discuss the acquisition of an elementary school site in the north part of the CISD is on the agenda should board members decide on a date for another bond issue attempt.

At their last meeting, board members were told by Keeling that discussion of the sites available would be suspended until a decision was made to call another bond issue.

Not a drop

Kathleen Talbott, a worker in the Randall County sheriff's office, takes a look at the rain gauge in the sheriff's office this week and notes, as have farmers that it's been a dry fall.

Not as good as '73, though

'75 a good year for agriculture

Randall County farmers and ranchers probably didn't make as much money in 1975 as they did in the record year of 1973, but they enjoyed another banner year for agricultural production.

That's the assessment of County Agent John Brazzil who last week said the county probably enjoyed gross agriculture sales of between $55 and $60 million for the year from livestock and crops.

That figure is down somewhat from the figure of record for total agricultural product sales in 1973 of about $81 million, but up significantly from the 1974 total of about $51 million, Brazzil said. Randall County farmers probably harvested last summer a record wheat crop in terms of bushels harvested, he said and enjoyed good wheat pasture for cattle feeding during the winter of the year.

Farms and ranches handled many cattle, he said, even though the feedlot industry in the county continued to suffer the effects of drastic problems encountered in 1974.

With record rainfall amounts in the winter and spring of the year, the county was assured of a good wheat crop and a fairly good grain sorghum crop, the acreage of which was cut considerably by the desire for more wheat crop acreage for fall planting.

The prospect for the 1976 wheat crop, the major crop in the county, however, suffered severe weather blows during the latter portion of 1975 and Brazzil said the wheat crop is still struggling for life.

Poor rains have hampered, first planting, and during the late fall the use of stocker cattle for grazing.

"At no time have we had any significant subsoil moisture," he said. "We have very erratic stands, thin stands with weak plants with little root development."

All of which doesn't portend good for the 1976 harvest season.

"As we come to the first of the year, we have a less than encouraging prospect for 1976," he said.

That part of the winter season which has traditionally been the roughest on wheat is still to come, he said, and with the weak root structure and inadequate subsoil moisture reserves the wheat will have a tough time.

"When wheat can root down in the fall it's a tough plant," Brazzil said. "But, when there is little root structure, it is rather susceptible to dehydration. I'm not saying we've lost a chance for a wheat crop, but we have to have some above-normal things to happen before we can be optimistic."

Good moisture with a good snow cover to protect the plant would help, he said, and might pull the crop out.

After 2 years, fed program needs only final approval

A federal program which could spur the industrial development of Canyon has languished on the desks of Washington officials for two years, but the long wait for action may be nearing an end.

George Louder, former Canyon city manager and now executive director of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, said he will travel to Washington either this month or next to try to obtain final approval from the federal Economic Development Agency for grant programs in the Panhandle.

The story of the PRPC's efforts to receive federal recognition as an economic development area, a designation which opens the doors to a wide variety of federal funding programs, illustrates in Louder's words "one of the biggest bureaucratic jungles I've gotten into."

The effort began in 1973 when the PRPC began gathering data to submit to the EDA to receive federal designation of the Panhandle as an economic development area. Sub-designations of certain cities as economic growth areas and as depressed growth areas were also sought.

Louder and local city officials, realizing the designation of Canyon as a Panhandle growth area could mean federal funding of various programs here, urged the PRPC to include Canyon in the Amarillo growth area.

In February 1974 and again in May 1974, the PRPC altered its basic charter to meet EDA requirements for minority representation and in the meantime Louder had moved to head up the staff of the regional planning commission. Periodically, he would tell reporters that final word from Washington on the designations was anticipated at any time.

In March 1975, the PRPC sent to Washington full plans for grant usage in the area and then in June Louder went to the capital city to answer questions of federal officials.

"Then some of the staff changed and we were dealing with different people," he said.

With the staff changes, the PRPC was sent back to answer

Local electorate needs choices

It is a major affliction of the post-Watergate national corpus that office-holding or public service has fallen into disrepute.

While a bit of skepticism about the virtues of public elected officials is healthy in a democracy, a cynical and absolute denial of virtue in public office, whether spoken or only felt consciously, is an invitation to corruption by the likes of which Watergate would only pale. Cynicism breeds contempt and contempt breeds ignorance and ignorance breeds, with self-filling propulsion, contemptible and ignorant office-holders.

Canyon would serve as a fine microcosmic example of the affliction were it not for the fact that abject apathy has been an illness here for years. Watergate has only brought the sickness to a festering head.

Several elected officials, while their announcements are not yet public, have made it known they will not seek re-election this year to local, county or district offices. Their reasons are their own and they certainly can only be thanked for what in most cases has been a job well done.

But, the affliction may be manifested in the vacuum which many in the community fear will prevail as spring elections approach and no candidates have come forth to offer themselves to public service.

The good government of Canyon, of Randall County, of the Canyon School District and the South Randall County Hospital District is, in fact, just as important to a resident as the good government of the federal or state systems. And, if good government is to be had, it will not come but through the hard and devoted work of men like Paul Lindsey. It will not come through cynical denials of community interest; it will not come through the "let George do it" syndrome.

Good government comes from participation.

Participation, certainly, is no easy task. Midnight cussings just aren't fun.

But, in a very real sense, and this is not just because the college textbook theorizes that democracy is based on participation by the people, citizen participation in government is a responsibility.

It is, it could be argued, an even more essential responsibility in troubled times, in times of cynicism, if democracy is also built on faith in elected leaders.

It is in the best interests of good government, the best interests, in fact, of Canyon and its future, for men and women who feel the pull of responsibility to come forward this spring to offer their services to the community.

A little competition, after all, can only insure the public, assuming rampant apathy has subsided by election day, has a choice. The choice is denied if participation is withheld. — C.W.

And the last shall be first. . .

An undocumented blurb in a most recent Harper's suggests proof is available to support an opinion which certainly rings true.

The proposition being that American schools, the American military and even American business discriminate most terribly against persons whose last names begin with letters near the end of our alphabet.

A ten-year survey of mortality statistics at a London hospital, Harper's avers, reported to the British Medical Association that people whose last names begin with the letters between S and Z are twice as likely as others to develop ulcers and three times more prone to heart attacks.

Not surprising statistics, really, when one considers the stress society puts on the person born with a last name which begins with a letter at the end of the alphabet.

Subtle discrimination against these unfortunates begins in elementary school where many teachers find it easier to catalogue kids in neat rows and on neat grade sheets by the first letter of their last names.

The Ss through Zs are rarely allowed to be first in the cafeteria line or first to the blackboard or first out the door for the playground.

In the Army, it's the guys with the last names beginning with A-K who get the bunks on the lower floor while those in the last half of the alphabet get to climb stairs.

In business, paychecks are generally made out in alphabetical order, making for a stressful situation for the already paranoia-imbuued employee who must worry whether the company will run out of money before his late-alphabet name is reached by the paymaster.

Without urging action by the federal courts, who seem to believe public schools the proper place to right the discriminatory habits of the populace, we would suggest the schools are in fact the right place to begin giving the late-alphabet names their due.

With the reopening of Canyon schools Monday, maybe teachers who in the past have practiced this type of discrimination will take heart.

Give the S through Zs a chance, teacher, and let 'em get out of the back of the class. — C.W.

Already the nadir has been reached

That great American Bicentennial year has only just begun and already manufacturers have reached the nadir we expected them to time to coincide with July 4.

Of all the Bicentennial-theme paraphernalia we've run across in the pre-Bicentennial year of 1975, the commemorative potty seat is the worst of them all—worse even than the red, white and blue commemorative fire plugs.

Perhaps star-bedecked toilet paper is the only product which might be more gross than the potty seat. But, with the Bicentennial only now gearing up we expect to see that too. — C.W.

Gas rate scrutiny is needed

So far this winter, Canyon city officials have said they are waiting on Hereford city commissioners to take action on a possible cutback in the natural gas cost of fuel adjustment allowed Pioneer Natural Gas Co. before they take action here.

But, if our city commissioners wait much longer to examine Pioneer's 100 per cent pass through policy, the policy which means local gas users pay what Pioneer claims is the total cost of increases of gas supplies at the field, action will do little to save residents money this winter.

Hereford officials have been working on a possible reduction of the allowable pass-through which Pioneer charges its customers for about three months and still have reached no decision, although City Manager Dudley Bayne says a decision is anticipated this month. If Pioneer and Canyon officials cannot move any faster here, Canyon residents cannot hope for any relief before spring, when giant gas bills due to winter weather are a thing of the immediate past and distant future.

The time for a study of Pioneer's 100 per cent gas pass through is now and not after Hereford has made a decision. Action could be swift because Pioneer has already compiled certain figures for Hereford which surely would be available for Canyon officials to examine.

If Canyon commissioners believe it part of their job to ensure equitable rates for city residents, they should begin studies culminating in solid action now. If they believe Pioneer is justified in having a 100 per cent pass through, let the belief be announced so the citizens will know where our commission stands. — C.W.

Bicentennial echoes from past

By MARY ALICE HINES

1976 has arrived! We have moved into the BICENTENNIAL year and the celebration will now go into high gear. I think the more flag-waving, the better. I would be delighted if we whipped ourselves into a frenzy of patriotic zeal — but in the light of today's cynicism, it does seem unlikely. But everyone, please, be mindful of the sacrifices and courage of those far-sighted men and women who carved out this truly unique democracy of ours. Their lives during the Revolution were surely more hectic than ours.

The rate of inflation was even worse during those war-ravaged years for they had relied on imports for so long.

Let me give you a glimpse of a truly simple time, around the turn of the 20th Century. I have a grocery bill of my great-grandfather's, W.F. Bennett, dated Aug. 18, 1903. His ranch was east of Dumas and he had to travel all the way to Channing for supplies.

Jerome the frog-prince and U.S. share same problems

By CARROLL WILSON

Consider Jerome the frog, who one day was just sitting around catching flies when a witch came by and on the whim of the moment decided to turn old Jerome into a prince.

Given the perverse nature of witches, the reader of this children's tome is not surprised when the witch, instead of turning Jerome into a prince only tells the hapless frog that he's a prince and then leaves him to hop regally into town oblivious to the reality of the joke she has intended.

"Am I a prince now?" Jerome asks after she performs her pseudo-miracle.

"Of course you are," she says reassuringly.

"But, I don't feel like a prince," Jerome responds.

"Oh, you will," says the witch, laughing up her sleeve. "You will. Now just go into town and see what happens."

So off goes Jerome and when he gets to town he announces to the townspeople that he is in fact a new prince come to do princely deeds.

The townspeople, of course, laugh mightily because there's Jerome in his marsh-green skin standing there trying to pass himself off as a prince, but they go along with him and tell him they've got a chore which absolutely demands the efforts of a prince.

A giant and terrible crow, it seems, is a plague to the village because he comes in annually to eat the corn before it has been harvested.

Jerome just walks right out into the field, waits for the crow to land and then confronts the munching bird.

"It's bad manners," Jerome says with a princely air, "to eat corn that doesn't belong to you."

But, the crow contends that, well, he's an awfully large bird and it takes a lot of corn to fill him up and, besides, he's afraid if he doesn't eat the corn all up some other animal will come along and get it.

Jerome counters however by arguing that he wouldn't touch corn on a bet, preferring flies for his meals, and he knows a heck of a lot of other animals who wouldn't be caught dead eating corn, either. All of which satisfied the crow, who flew off whistling.

Jerome reports back to the townspeople on his success at saving their corn and in the meantime it seems the townspeople have thought up another princely deed suitable to test the talents of the new prince.

There is, it seems, a greasy dragon which lives just outside town and which threatens the people with his fiery breath.

Jerome, still oblivious to his true nature, marches up to the dragon's cave with sword in hand and challenges the beast to come forward to be slain.

"Why?" asks the dragon, poking his head from the cave and giving off a putrid odor.

"Because," Jerome retorts, "you have been burning the people's houses and forests."

"Well," the dragon says. "It is my nature. You know what I mean? I just can't help burning things, no matter how hard I try."

A master at logical argument, Jerome hits upon a diversion for the dragon, which will account for the dragon's nature and will also remove him as a threat to the town, and suggests to the dragon that he burn something else.

A not-too-fierce dragon is led by Jerome to the town dump where he glories in the trash available for burning and vows to spend at least a couple of days each week there just to vent his natural instincts.

With this great princely triumph, some people in the town begin to believe that old Jerome really is a prince. Others demand more proof and Jerome is sent off to subdue a wicked wizard who lives in the woods and does terrible things.

The wizard is enticed into a discussion of his boyhood by the wordy frog-prince and, forgetting that all his wishes come true, wished aloud that he could return to his boyhood days. Poof! and he's a boy again and, of course, no longer a doer of terrible things.

This last princely deed convinced the townspeople that Jerome was, indeed, a prince and they erected posters with his visage throughout the village and they gave him a little green castle where he lived happily ever after.

Jerome, of course, is a book for children, written by Philip Rensner in 1967 and there's no reason to believe it was written as an allegory.

It's just a romantic little story about self-delusion and the ability of the self-deluded to delude others.

And, as such, I would say it's a pretty good romantic commentary on the inexorable and anguished self-deception prevailed on the United States in the name of detente with the world's super powers.

We, too, have been told so long that we are the prince of the world, the mightiest of the mighty, that self-deception is self-propelled without logical or empirical bases. We believe we are what we want to believe we are and we reject the obvious because it is perceived as inconsistent with our self-defined self-deception.

We have had our share of princely deeds, the latest of which is the effort to defang the Russians and the Chinese with the same kind of semantic gibberish Jerome uses to subdue the corn-eating crow.

"We just want this or that," say the Chinese and Russians and a Jerome-like secretary of state disavows our interest in the this and that and sets about to negotiate.

But, Jerome the children's book, being a romantic little piece, doesn't face up to the real world, the realistic problem of defanging a dragon.

We retain Jerome characteristics of compromise and talk but the dragon, the wizard and the crow of real life, while appearing to compromise and talk, continue to burn the village, do terrible things and eat all the corn.

Unlike Jerome, unfortunately, our foreign policy, based in self-deception and fed by a refusal to be realistic, the United States will gain no green castle or worldwide favor of the people.

We'll not live happily ever after.

Our world

What is happening to our country?

By Ann Brown

Many bewildered Americans are wondering what is happening to our country. Sen. William Jenner, champion of freedom and Chairman of the U.S. Senate, explains it in a way we can all understand.

Sen. Jenner illustrates our situation with the story of a German who worked on an assembly line in a baby carriage factory during the Nazi regime.

The German's wife was expecting a baby, but the government permitted no private sales of baby carriages.

The enterprising German secretly collected a part from each department, took them home, and he and his wife put them together.

The finished product, however, was not a baby carriage. It was a machine gun!

Sen. Jenner says we have a total pattern for revolution being assembled out of some innocent looking parts. Only the men who made the blueprint know what the finished product will be and when and how it will be used.

According to Jenner, the switch will not be pulled until the American people are convinced resistance is hopeless, or they are conditioned to slavery.

The parts Jenner says are being assembled to destroy us include detente, lowered national defense, excessive taxation, welfare, federal control of education, guns, police, and the economy.

Welfare, food stamps, unemployment compensation, aid to dependent children, etc., have destroyed the will to work among hosts of the poor.

Excessive taxation is destroying the productivity of the middle class.

Federal controls are strangling big business and private enterprise, and ruining individual initiative. Federal fiscal foolishness has brought millions of individuals, many cities, and the nation to the brink of financial ruin.

While Americans go bankrupt, Kissinger has arranged for billions of dollars of "credit" to Russia and Red China. Both are committed to the destruction of America.

What better way to destroy us than to devour free American food while we spend all our time and energy trying to pay our bills?

Federal intervention in education has created jungles that many of the best teachers — and students — cannot endure.

If gun controls can be forced on Americans, we will one day find ourselves in the same position of the Portuguese: trying to defend our lives with sticks and stones against well-armed communists.

Who are the architects of this blueprint for American destruction?

Who is running our government?

The most obvious great powers are Nelson Rockefeller and Henry Kissinger.

If the average American is painfully alarmed at the trend of national affairs, why can't our elected representatives see the danger?

A few of them can, of course, but we seldom hear much from them until they lose their official positions.

In the July, 1975, Reader's Digest, Melvin Laird, former U.S. Secretary of Defense, sounded the alarm with detailed facts and figures.

Laird said the U.S. has granted Russia long-term, unsecured loans at interest rates below what American home buyers, farmers, businessmen, or the government must pay.

"We are keeping alive, in this manner, a faltering Russian economy so that it can mount an enormous arms buildup to destroy us."

Detente, says Laird, is a one-way street designed to keep Americans pacified while communists prepare for our destruction.

What can the average American do to try to insure survival for self and loved ones?

We can write our elected senators and representatives, and demand that they put America's welfare first, and quit following the Judas goats to their slaughter.

Then we can pray. Even Kissinger can't control our prayers. And with all his power, he is no match for our God.

Miller Retires

Retirement for Leroy Miller, maintenance engineer for the Randall County Courthouse, began Jan. 1 ending an 18-year career during which he was "more than a custodian and more than a gardener" for Canyon.

"When I started," stated Miller, "there were a few trees (mostly elm) and a patch of grass to care for."

"We reseeded the lawn several times and with the help and guidance of the County Agent John Brazzil, numerous unusual pine trees, vines and other plants found a special home on the Courthouse lawn," stated Miller.

Future care of those plants at the courthouse will be handled by Johnny Miller, who has accepted the maintenance engineering position as Leroy's successor. Johnny Miller (no relation) was formerly with the Texas Highway Department.

Leroy Miller, whose wife Ruth retired last year from the Randall County Tax Office, will be switching his gardening and landscaping experience from the Courthouse lawn to a 4-acre site just south of town.

The Miller home is located on the 4-acre site which was purchased by the couple some years ago to develop into a nursery and landscaping service for the area.

"We bought this location in hopes that our sons would become interested in horticulture and landscaping to the point that both would be able to earn their own finances for education," stated Miller. "At the time neither Bill nor Larry wanted any part of it."

Through the years, however, both Bill and Larry have changed their minds and are both now in the landscaping and horticulture field. Bill is a buyer with Gardenland Industries and is headquartered at Houston.

"One night," related Miller "we got a long distance call from Bill and he said he was going to chuck his job (with an engineering firm in Waco) and give landscaping a try."

"It wasn't so bad that Bill wanted to quit his job and begin a new career," stated Mr. Miller, "but I asked him to think about it first since he had a wife and family to support already."

Bill took a job with a gardening nursery in Waco and later moved to Houston with his wife, the former Patsy Thomas of Canyon, where his job and promotions have gone well in the industry.

The Miller's other son, Larry, spent time with the service and is now enrolled at Texas Tech University where he is studying in landscape architecture.

The Miller family moved to Canyon in March 1953 and he worked locally a few years before taking the position of maintenance engineer for the Courthouse here.

He had studied agriculture on the veteran's vocational program after serving in World War II. Mr. Miller had planned to attend Texas A&M to study agriculture but dropped the idea when he was needed at home due to the contract of typhoid by his mother. He was the eldest of the Miller family and had been the "man of the house" since he was eight years old when his father died.

"I guess you can say I helped to raise two younger brothers and two sisters," stated Miller "but it was really my mother who gets the credit there."

Miller's voluntary enrollment in World War II came about because he was the eldest and unmarried at the time. He joined the service so that his younger brothers would not be called and served as squadron inspector and crew chief, never leaving the state of Texas.

On return from the service, Miller and his wife, Ruth, farmed at Valleyview (in the Gainesville-Denton area) for some years before moving to West Texas.

The Miller family includes the two sons, Bill and Larry, who are following their father's field and a daughter, Marjorie, who lives at Dumas with husband, Ronnie Radcliffe.

"Retirement" says Miller "means that we will have more time for our nursery and landscaping business here — but we'll also have a lot more time to spend with our four grandchildren too."

News Brief

MRS. A.W. REAGAN returned for the holidays to Canyon with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Thompson of Houston after visiting there since Thanksgiving.

A family dinner was enjoyed Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Reagan and their children, John and Leann, by the Thompsons, Mrs. Reagan, Mrs. Ora Russell and Becky Russell.

After more than 18 years as maintenance engineer for the Randall County Courthouse, Leroy Miller will spend his retirement years in planting and landscaping interests, south of the city.

Longest Files For Office

Randall County Sheriff Cliff Longest announced Friday he will seek re-election.

Longest is a Democrat.

He became the first county or district official in the area to announce his intentions to run for re-election this year.

Longest said he will "run on my record," a record which spans more than 20 years in law enforcement.

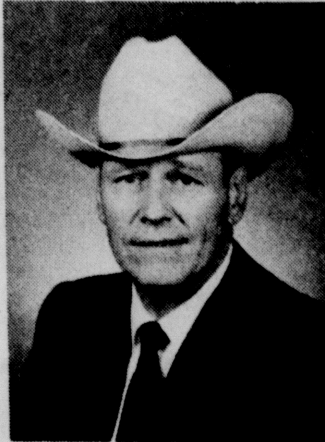

The sheriff was appointed in 1972 as sheriff to replace L.S. Johnston, who died while in office. Longest was elected sheriff in the 1972 general election.

He had been a deputy sheriff for the county for about 15 years. Prior to that he had served as a motorcycle patrolman, training sergeant and in the juvenile division of the Amarillo Police Department.

Longest said he feels the sheriff's department had made several strides since he was elected three years ago.

A new records system has been implemented and the department has obtained new equipment for crime scene analysis.

In addition, more men have been added to the office to provide patrolling for rural and urban areas.

Funds Given University

The West Texas State University School of Business has received $1000 from the Diamond Shamrock Corp.

In the letter with the donation, company officials complemented the quality of the WTSU graduates working for their company.

According to WTSU Business Dean Albert R. Mitchell, the donation will be used to award five $200 scholarships for the academic year 1976. At least two of these will go to freshmen, he said.

The Kitchen Sink

By SUSAN WILSON

A new year's supposed to be a fresh start and I suppose it would be if I didn't have so much stuff left over from last year that still needs to be done.

At any rate, I made my New Year's resolutions and now — three days later — I'll let you see how well I've been keeping them.

1. I'll try to keep my house clean. Just as soon as I get it clean. That'll take five, maybe six, months of constant work.

2. I won't yell at the kids. (New Year's morning I awoke to D'Arcy with the TV blaring while she munched on corn chips. Julie atop the dining room table, one knee in the butter and one hand in my imported marmalade while she screamed for a drink of water, and Rebecca splashing happily in the toilet. Sometimes you have to yell to get their attention.)

3. I will teach my children that different is special. (Not only will this help them in social situations in life, but it may save me hours looking for matching ribbons, barretts and socks.)

4. I will quit making excuses. (That's a good idea — but . . .)

5. I will stop putting things off. (One of my most infuriating habits. Last party we went to, I finished hemming my skirt in the car. That was New Year's eve.)

6. I will be more grateful. (Here's one that can be carried to an extreme. When I was wringing out dirty diapers from the diaper pail, a breath-taking experience. Hubby suggested I say a little prayer over each smelly gem, a kind of gratitude for the little ones we have been blessed with. When I suggested he do it, he declined.)

7. I won't go to bed with any dirty dishes in the sink. (First night I was up until 12:30 a.m. washing dishes, then I quit. Next night I washed until 10:30, then I got tired, so I took all the dirty dishes out of the sink, stashed them in the oven, the cupboards, the dirty clothes hamper and the bread box. A person ought to be able to keep at least one resolution.)

8. I will broaden my mind this year, with good books, periodicals, art, films and good music. (First night, I read the Sesame Street magazine and listened to Three Little Fishes. Next night, we took the kids to see Snow White. Tonight I'm scrubbing some of Julie's great art off the bedroom wall. Exciting! Entertaining! Enlightening!)

9. I will not be perfect. (No one would like a perfect person. Now, there's a resolution I can live with.)

10. I will quit punishing myself with resolutions.

Lump Payment Suggested

Canyon Schools Attorney Elton Cox said Friday he will recommend the school board accept a lump sum payment from the Amarillo school district to halt an appeal by the AISD of a county school board decision on the matter.

Cox said he has talked with AISD Attorney R.A. Wilson who has indicated the board would accept a lump sum offer from the CISD as payment for loss of revenue to be incurred by the CISD due to the transfer of 160 acres of development land to the AISD.

The AISD board has given notice that it plans to appeal a Randall County Board of School Trustees decision rendered in December requiring the AISD to pay the CISD the tax loss funds from each of five years on the property in the Glendale subdivision.

Wilson had termed the trustee decision arbitrary and without the sanction of the law.

Cox said until the matter is settled the 160-acre tract cannot be transferred to the Amarillo district.

It Was A Dry Year

Records confirm what farmers already knew — it was a dry year in '75.

Only 15.22 inches of precipitation fell in Canyon during the year, according to records kept at the Canyon Fire Department.

It was a bit wetter to the north, with 21.08 inches recorded at the Amarillo station by the National Weather Service.

During 1974, Canyon had 22.63 inches of moisture.

Last year began with a dry January, with only .31 inches of moisture recorded, but the spring and summer months were damper.

Moisture records show

February, 1.26; March, .24; April, 1.18; May, 2.38; June, 2.14; July, 5.03 and 8.80 inches in August.

But the fall was dry, with only .77 inches in September, a trace recorded in October and 1.04 inches in November.

The snowfalls after Christmas brought the only moisture in December, with an inch and a half of snow amounting to .07 inches of moisture.

1975 was perhaps the driest year within the last five years. Records kept by the Canyon Fire Department include only 1975-74, but records maintained for Amarillo show 18.05 inches in 1973; 15.34 in 1972 and 23.04 inches in 1971.

NO VIRGINIA...

MONEY DOES NOT GROW ON TREES

Money doesn't come easy! In order to continue uninterrupted, dependable and adequate service, it's necessary that we replace old, worn-out equipment with newer, more efficient facilities. Included are power plants which, these days, require very expensive pollution control devices.

To take care of such requirements over the next five years, we'll need $389 million dollars. Of this amount, we'll have to borrow $252 millions of dollars . . . a financial challenge that we'll overcome.

No Virginia . . . money does not grow on trees . . . it only comes the hard way.

more questions they'd already answered.

Finally, Louder said, he insisted in November that the EDA officials submit their questions in writing for answers in writing and the questions were received before Christmas. The answers were mailed last week.

But, Louder said, had the EDA staff members read the original PRPC application they would have found the answers to the questions themselves.

If designation of the Canyon area as a growth center can be obtained when Louder returns to Washington either this month or next, local officials could apply for federal funding for industrial development projects.

Louder said funds would be available for financing an industrial park, streets and other fixtures to enhance Canyon's chances for attracting industry.

He termed the program "pretty liberal" and said federal funding under the program had been used in the past even for construction of a hospital to enhance a town's chances at obtaining industry.

Pool Baby Year's First

The first baby born at Palo Duro Hospital in 1976 was delivered at 1:51 p.m. on Jan. 1 to Patrice Pool while her husband, Gary, was in the waiting area.

The Pool's first baby was a girl weighing 6 pounds, 15 1/2 ounces and measuring 19 inches at birth. She has been named Renee Dawn.

Mrs. Pool, the former Patrice McLain, is a registered nurse at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo after graduating last May from the nursing program at West Texas State University.

The father is a senior industrial technology major at WTSU due to receive his degree in May 1976. The Pools live at 1803 First Avenue in Canyon.

Maternal grandparents of the new arrival are Mr. and Mrs. Don McLain of Spearman and the paternal grandparents are J.R. Pool of Norwalk, Calif. and Mrs. Dorothy Stewart of Higgins, Tex. Great grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. L.S. McLain of Spearman, Mrs. Lola May Cator of Gruver, Mrs. Goldie Bowling of Houston, Luther Standrich of Oklahoma and Mrs. Pool of Odessa.

year period, until 1966 when he was elected mayor. He served as mayor for four years before announcing his retirement from public life in 1970. He ran for county commissioner and was elected in 1972.

During his tenure as a county commissioner, Lindsey has taken a lead in upgrading county road policies. He was largely responsible for the preparation of the current road stipulations, which place restrictions on the types of roads which the county will maintain for developers and individuals in rural areas.

Lindsey also worked to produce a county-wide fire fighting program which would insure adequate protection for rural residents. He authored a Randall County rural fireplan which has participation from the City of Canyon, City of Amarillo, Happy, Umparger, Bushland and Tanglewood and which former City Manager George Louder termed a model plan for other counties in the state.

Lindsey has also been chief overseer of county road maintenance and construction jobs, since the bulk of the county roads in the county are within his precinct.

Lindsey was named Canyon's Citizen of the Decade in 1970 and was Canyon's Citizen of the Year in 1968.

moting the various chamber-sponsored activities.

Johnston, owner of the Canyon Western Auto Associate Store, was elected president of the chamber in December. He succeeds Weldon Trice, an administrator at West Texas State University.

The chamber board will meet at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the community center.

Permit. . .

Henson, Graham and others began their fight against weather modification projects on the South Plains last spring, contending that the projects sought to stymie hail but also worked to halt rainfall in the southern end of the county.

A group of ranchers and cattlemen from the south portion of the county travelled to Austin last spring to protest issuance of a permit to the Plains group, but the water development board voted on a split to issue the permit. Weather modification activities for which the permit was issued ceased in November.

Salaries. . .

with a rate of inflation of between 10 and 12 per cent per year a six per cent pay hike "won't cut it."

The starting salary for a new county employee is $415 per month. The majority of the 78 county employees have salaries between $500 and $700 per month, according to salary figures compiled by County Auditor Mrs. Betty Hodges.

Two full-time workers have salaries of $400 per month, four make $415 per month, five make $445 per month and one makes $490. County elected officials, other than commissioners, make between $1000 and $1500 per month.

The method of sale of the South Amarillo courthouse annex which has been vacated with construction of a new annex will be discussed by commissioners during their meeting.

They will also review workmen's compensation insurance with Agent George Blackwell. In their last meeting, commissioners voted to participate in a Texas Association of Counties workmen's compensation program if the program would insure volunteer firemen.

Nolon Henson, a South Randall County cattleman, will ask commissioners to pass another resolution condemning the modification of weather in Randall County. Two permit requests from South Plains associations are pending before the Texas Water Development Board for weather modification activities.

Injured Youth Is Hospitalized

A 17-year-old Canyon youth was reported still in stable condition Friday following emergency surgery in a New Mexico hospital.

Craig Johnson of 414 Foster Lane underwent surgery on Jan. 31 at Holy Cross Hospital in Taos, N.M. for complications following a gunshot wound received here on Dec. 26.

More Deaths, Fewer Weddings Here

Vital statistics for Canyon in 1975 could almost be summed up in a word: more. More births. More deaths. More divorces. And slightly fewer marriages.

There were 213 babies born at Palo Duro Hospital last year, a sharp increase over the 181 born in 1974. Girls reversed the trend of a year ago and outnumbered the boys with 111 female infants and 102 male infants born.

In 1974, there were only 87 female babies born here while 94 male babies were born. This was a turnaround from 1973 when girls again outnumbered the boys with 106 female births recorded and 97 male births.

Deaths recorded in the city were up slightly in 1975 and more women than men died here. Last year there were 46 deaths recorded with 25 female deaths and 21 male deaths listed. In 1974, 38 deaths were recorded.

The number of marriages declined slightly from 271 in 1974 to 268 in 1975.

May was the leading month for marriages with 35 recorded but December followed closely with 32. August held third place in popularity with 29 marriages recorded and November was fourth with 25.

The fewest number of marriages took place in September with only 11 recorded.

The most popular months for weddings in 1974 were August with 47, July with 33 and May with 32.

There were more divorces in 1975. A total of 580 were filed during the 12-month period and 467 were granted. The year before, 345 divorces were filed and 380 were granted.

Funeral Rites For H. Barrett

Held January 3

Funeral services for Herbert Barrett, 82, were conducted Saturday, Jan. 3, at the First Baptist Church of Canyon with Rev. Jim Hancock, pastor, and Rev. Howell G. Verner officiating.

Mr. Barrett, who resided at Rt. 2, Box 46 in Happy, died Wednesday at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. He was born May 29, 1893 in Erath County, Tex. and had lived in this area for 33 years.

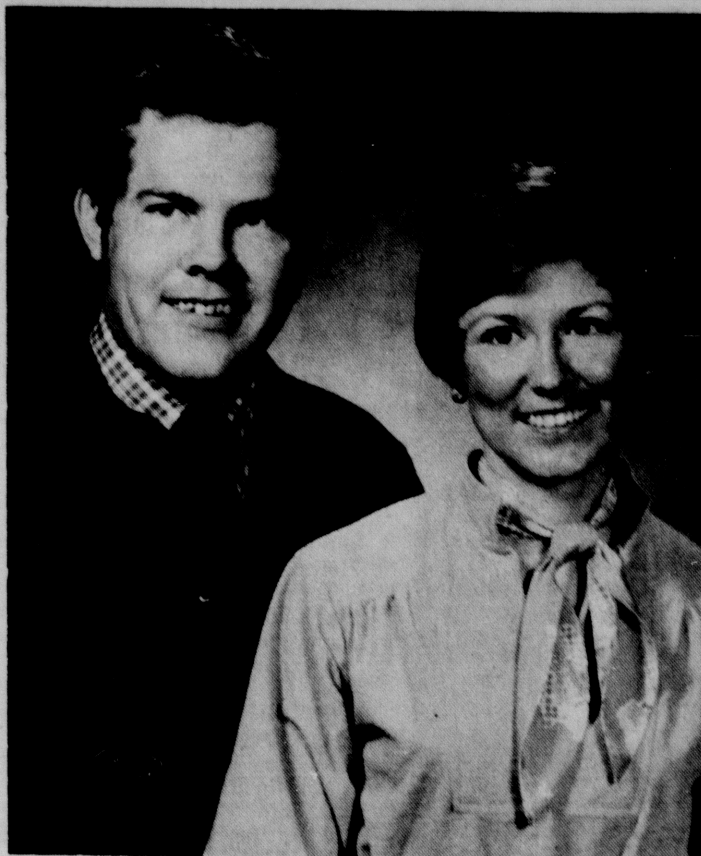

He was married to the former Rae Lida on February 20, 1920 at Stephenville. She died December 8, 1975.

A retired farmer, Mr. Barrett was a member of the First Baptist Church of Canyon and the R.N.&O. Sunday School Class. The family requests that memorial gifts be designated to the youth program of the First Baptist Church or a favorite charity.

Burial was at Dreamland Cemetery under the direction of Schooler-Gordon Funeral Directors of Canyon. Serving as pallbearers were Raymond Henders, Burton David, Frank Davis, Nolon Henson, Ocie Chism and Cristler Crain.

Survivors include one son, Elmo Barrett of Amarillo; two daughters, Mrs. Fred Anderson of Chicago, Ill. and Mrs. Lloyd Crowover of Stratford; a brother, L.W. Barrett of Plains, Tex.; 12 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

Eagles Win Tourney

The Canyon Eagles won the Amarillo Tournament last week by downing three South Plains teams.

John Johnson, leading scorer in two of the three games in the tourney, was named to the All-Tournament Team.

To take the tournament, the Eagles beat Post on Monday night 55-48 with Ken Cooper hitting 21 points and Johnson hitting 13.

Friona bowed to Canyon by 52-46 with Johnson hitting 21 and Cooper hitting 17. In the finals, the Eagles downed Abilene with a score of 69-51. Johnson had a score of 29 for the game while Hoss Ratliff hit 17.

Friday night, after winning the Amarillo tournament, the Eagles beat Friona again at Friona by a 58-36 margin. Mike Flynn was leading scorer with 16 points followed by Johnson and Cooper with 14 each.

The Eagle season record now stands at 13-5. They were to play Lockney, a team with a 17-0 record, on Saturday night.

The Canyon Junior Varsity also took their division in the tournament last week with wins over Happy, Bovina and Darrouzett.

Terry Mick and Alan Rozell were named to the all-tournament team for their play.

The junior varsity now sports an 11-3 record.

Petitions Incomplete

Petitions asking the Canyon School Board to call an election for extension of a $3000 tax exemption to the elderly may or may not be presented the board Monday night.

H.C. Bennett, a South Amarilloan who is spearheading the petition effort, said he has yet to receive full reports from area chairmen on how many signatures have been obtained on the more than 30 petitions he's circulated.

More than 500 signatures are being sought by Bennett for presentation to the board.

However, School Board members will consider whether to grant the exemption without an election at their Monday night session.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at the school administration building.

City To Consider Landfill Operation

Changes in the fees and operation of the city's landfill will be proposed Monday as the city commissioners hold their first meeting in the new civic complex.

The rate changes were requested by city manager Glen Metcalf to meet an expected increase in the landfill used by South Amarillo residents when the Amarillo landfill moves to the west on Monday.

Metcalf is asking to raise rates from the present $1.50 maximum to a maximum of $20 for large trucks or trailers dumping more than 30 cubic yards. The minimum fee, now 50 cents, would be raised to a minimum of $1.80 for all loads of two cubic yards or less.

City residents disposing of household garbage or trash would be exempted under the new fees, Metcalf proposes.

Metcalf is also asking that present exemptions for WTSU, the public schools, the Texas Highway Department and Randall County be eliminated.

In addition to the landfill proposals, the agenda also lists consideration of final plats for Westgate addition and Hunsley Hills unit 6, and appointment of members to the planning and zoning commission, Canyon housing authority, the library board and the electrical board.

The commissioners will meet at 7 p.m.

Presbyterian Church Setting For Marriage

First Presbyterian Church of Canyon was the setting for marriage vows uniting Miss Ricki Lynn Cross and David Dowd Carter on December 12

Anniversary Celebration

The sixtieth wedding anniversary of Joe Black and his wife, Mary, was celebrated Tuesday by friends at a Bingo Party in the LaCasa Canyon Nursing Home.

The couple resides at 606 14th Street and have been staying at the city home since Mrs. Black suffered a broken hip some time back.

The couple was married at Byars, Okla., Dec. 30, 1914 and moved to Canyon in 1917. They had both attended West Texas State prior to the marriage.

When the couple returned to Canyon, Mr. Black became involved in farming and ranching and Mrs. Black taught school at Rex Reeves Elementary School here for 20 years before retirement. She has been a substitute teacher since retirement.

The couple has two sons, Robert of Borger and Kenneth of Dallas, and also have 7 grandchildren and 8 great grandchildren.

with Rev. Baldwin Stribling officiating.

The double ring ceremony united the daughter of K.E. Cross of 2145 Brampton St. Walnut Creek, California with the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nig Carter of #4 Bramblewood in Canyon.

Matching large baskets filled with white mums and white carnations and accented by maroon colored leaves and greenery decorated the sanctuary.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of satapeau featuring inserts of venice lace at the empire waistline and trimming the bodice. The venice lace formed a v-shaped yoke and cuffs of the full bishop sleeves had inserts of matching lace. The formal length full skirt had a double band of crystal pleating encircling the hemline and chapel length wedding train. Her head-dress was matching venice lace accented with seed pearls and held a fingertip veil of English illusion.

For the traditional wedding, the bride carried a handkerchief which had been carried by the bridegroom's grandmother, wore a necklace made from a special pin of her grandfather, wore a blue garter and had a penny in her shoe which was from her father. She carried a cascade of white roses and babies breath.

Donna Behrens, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and wore a cranberry colored long gown accented with a candlelight colored lace panel down the front. The dress featured short puffed sleeves and was tied with a cranberry sash and ruffle at the hemline. She had a cranberry bow headdress and carried a nosegay of white carnations, dark red roses and babies breath.

Amy Behrens, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a candlelight floor length dress accented with lace and a candlelight colored sash and carried a basket filled with dark red roses, white carnations and babies breath.

Charley Ham served as best man. Ushering was Douglas Behrens, brother-in-law of the bride. The bridegroom attendants wore tuxedos for the event and the bridegroom wore black tuxedo slacks topped with a cranberry coat and ruffled shirt. The rehearsal supper preceding the ceremony and the wedding reception afterwards were both held in the home of the bridegroom's parents at #4 Bramblewood Lane. Assisting with serving at the wedding reception were Pamela Hudson and Debbie Hudson of Wichita, Kansas, cousins of the bride, and Roseann Ham of Canyon. Wedding guests were registered at the guest book by Sheryl Hieronimus of Clovis, New Mexico.

A white linen cloth covered the reception table which was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and dark red roses. The three tiered wedding cake was arranged at one end of the table while a silver punch bowl was at the other end.

For a wedding trip to Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, the bride changed to a turquoise gabardine pantsuit with a patterned silk scarf and matching accessories.

The couple has established their home at 1102 Seventh Avenue in Canyon. The bridegroom is engaged in business with his father and is a 1970 graduate of Canyon High School. The bride graduated from Ponca City High School in Ponca City, Oklahoma and attended Southwestern State College at Weatherford, Oklahoma for three years. She was graduated from Northwest Texas State School of Nursing in Amarillo during 1975 and is presently working there.

Local On Honor Roll

Trudy Shropshire, daughter of Mrs. Terry C. Martin, 9 Country Club Drive, has been named to the President's Honor Roll at Phillips University for the fall semester, according to Dr. Thomas E. Broce, president.

Only 60 students on the Phillips campus qualified for the President's list by maintaining a straight "A" overall average for the semester's studies.

Phillips University is a four-year liberal arts institution supported by the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

Holiday Vows Unite Miss Elliott-Carnes

Aldersgate United Methodist Church of Abilene was the setting for the double ring marriage vows uniting Miss Debbie Elliott and Michael Ray Carnes at 7 p.m. on Jan. 2.

Rev. David Hamblin, Methodist Minister, officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.T. Elliott of Abilene and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Carnes of the United States Air Force in Okinawa, formerly of Abilene.

For her wedding the bride sang We've Only Just Begun and Linda Rehm served as organist for selections including The Lord's Prayer, The Wedding Prayer and The Twelfth of Never with Nema Rivers as soloist.

Matching spiral candelabrum bearing 20 tapers each framed the altar and the unity candle service was included in the ceremony.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace featuring a scalloped neckline with long sleeves and a molded bodice. Sequined tiers of lace formed the buffant wedding skirt and chapel train. Her illusion veil was held to a pearl accented Chantilly lace bandeau.

Marsha Jones, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Debbie Hodges, Liz Sadler and Marla Carnes.

The bridegroom's brother, Bill Carnes, served as best man and the groomsmen were Steve Jones, Doug Smith and Fred Custer. The groomsmen also served as ushers for the wedding.

A reception was held in fellowship hall of the church prior to the couple's departure for the wedding trip to Galveston. The bride left the church in her wedding dress.

The couple will be making their home at 1804 7th Avenue, Canyon, after January 9. The bride is a sophomore nursing major at West Texas State University and member of Delta Zeta social sorority. The bridegroom has attended West Texas State University and is employed as a carpenter with the WTSU maintenance department.

Lamont Petition Submitted

A petition bearing the signatures of just over 50 per cent of the property owners along Lamont Street was turned in to the City of Amarillo on Christmas Eve, capping a long drive by Gene Howe area residents to have the main thoroughfare by the elementary school improved.

"I think when school begins next fall, you'll have some new paving," predicted Amarillo city manager John Stiff.

The petition effort was spearheaded by a committee formed in October by the Gene Howe PTA and headed by Dr. Nolan Clark. The drive began after 8-year-old Jay Knight, a third grader at Gene Howe, was hit by a car and seriously injured as he walked home from school along Lamont Street.

The narrow, rural-type road serves as the main access for students, buses and parents delivering and picking up school children at Gene Howe. School principal Luther Lawless estimated that 150 students use the street daily to come and go from school.

Without curbs or sidewalks, Lamont is also bordered by deep ditches on each side, which, area residents pointed out, increases the danger to both children and motorists.

After the Knight youngster was injured, the committee, which included his father, was formed and began to contact property owners. The property along Lamont Street is largely undeveloped and the committee made slow progress in obtaining the necessary 50 per cent of signatures needed. Property owners must bear the cost of improvements.

In meeting the January deadline, the committee succeeded where an earlier drive had failed. Several years ago, Gene Howe area residents had tried to get Lamont Street improved but the petition had failed.

Dr. Clark said the committee was working for an Aug. 15 target for completion. There are several procedures ahead, including a public hearing, he said.

He said the committee had received good cooperation from the property owners.

"Everyone wants to see our area improve," he said. "And we have a good case."

Miss Smith Marries Jordan In Ceremony

Joseph A. Hill Memorial Chapel on the campus of West Texas State University was the setting for the double ring ceremony which united Miss Donna Smith and Don Jordan in marriage Saturday evening, Jan. 3.

Charles Davenport of the First Baptist Church in Tulia officiated at the exchange of vows. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Smith of 2522 11th Avenue, Canyon, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Jordan of Elkhart, Kans. are parents of the bridegroom.

A heart shaped candelabra with yellow candles flanked by side branched candelabrum with floral arrangements in front decorated the sanctuary. Greenery marked the family pews.

Verna Kay Crist was pianist for Annie's Song, The Wedding Song and Twelfth of Never. Roger Harvey was the soloist for We've Only Just Begun with piano accompaniment provided for the selection by Harvey's wife, Karen.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length wedding gown of silk faced organza designed with a fitted bodice overlain with lace and lace cap fitted sleeves framing the shoulder with wide borders of lace at the wrist of the long sleeves. A stand-up collar of matching lace accented the neckline and the full skirt was swept from a fitted waistline. The skirt was completely bordered with lace roses and a wide band of lace at the skirt's edge to form the sanctuary train.

Her tiered veil of imported illusion was surrounded with an edging of lace and attached to a bride's bandeau encrusted with seed pearls, lace and maline. Her bouquet was white baby roses, white daisies and baby's breath. Beverly Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Brenda Counsellor and Linda Jordan, sister of the bridegroom. They wore turquoise velvet floor length dresses with long sleeves, and lace edged high necked collars. The midriffs of the matching dresses were accented with lace and each carried a bouquet of turquoise and yellow flowers in the bride's chosen colors.

Steve Jordan of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Bob Thorpe of Tulsa, Okla. and Barry Francis of Canyon. Ushering were Jack Wilson of Canyon and George Brownlee of Dumas.

The Methodist Student Center on the university campus was the setting for the wedding reception held following the ceremony. Debbi Rossi of Canyon served the wedding cake with Connie Pitt of Amarillo serving punch. Assisting with serving were Cindy Collier and Sandra Collier.

As the couple departed for their wedding trip, the bride wore a rust colored pantsuit with brown accessories and a corsage lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The couple will be establishing their home at 208 Porter in Dumas where the bridegroom is presently employed with Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company in Dumas.

He is a 1970 graduate of Dumas High School and earned a degree in business administration at West Texas State University in the spring of 1975.

The bride graduated from Canyon High School in 1972 and earned her degree in elementary education from West Texas State University in December 1975. She was a member of Kappa Delta Pi education honor society and Alpha Chi national honor society at WT.

Nuptial Vows Exchanged

Double ring marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Patricia Elaine Freidell and Timothy Hugh Penprase in ceremonies Saturday evening, Jan. 3, at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Amarillo with the Rev. Robert Kinney officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Theodore D. Freidell of No. 11 Hunsley Hills Blvd. in Canyon and Mr. and Mrs. John N. Penprase of Kansas City, Mo.

are parents of the bridegroom. Traditional greenery of the Christmas season decorated the church with scarlet poinsettias arranged to outline a Christmas tree for the backdrop of the church cross. The altar was accented with vases of assorted antique white flowers.

Rick Land, organist, presented The Trumpet Tune by Clarke as the processional with Trumpet Voluntary by Purcell for the recessional. Other selections included Largo by Handel, Panis Angelicus by Franck and selected hymns.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride selected a formal wedding gown of satin organza over bridal taffeta designed with a fitted empire bodice, victorian neckline and long sheer full sleeves caught at the wrists by deep cuffs. Cluny lace traced a design over the bodice, neck and sleeves and a heavy venice lace biblet was applied on the sheer yoke of the gown's bodice. The softly gathered skirt was framed by a deep flounce hemline which swept to back fullness and cascaded to a brush train. She wore a matching cluny lace veil held to a miniature bridal coif with illusion veiling extending the full length of the wedding gown. The bride carried a cascade arrangement of spider mums and roses.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Daniel Arnold as the matron of honor and Miss Jana Burton as maid of honor. The bridal attendants wore identical gowns of muted apricot and gold flowers on a candlelight background. Their dresses featured full sleeves held to deep cuffs of candlelight lace and they wore velvet ivory colored hats trimmed with matching flowers and green streamers. Each bridal attendant carried a cascade arrangement of butterscotch daisy poms with dried wheat.

Michael Penprase, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and the bride's brother, Brian Freidell, served as groomsmen. Ushering were Randall Burton and Roger Burton.

The fireplace room of the church was the setting for the reception following where the table was covered with a full brocade candlelight cloth. The
